

Change in population between 2011 and 2016 City of Toronto, 2016

Source: Statistics Canada. 2016 Census.

Overall, the City of Toronto's population increased by 4.5% from 2011 to 2016. This map illustrates how that population growth was distributed across the city by census tract, showing areas of acute growth corresponding with new developments, especially along the Waterfront in the downtown core, within the Toronto South LIP boundary.